Longer Draft Urged

Dollar Savings Being Claimed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—Assistant Defense Secretary Anna M. Rosenberg testified today that an increase in the draft service from 21 to 27 months will save the nation $709 million a year.

Mrs. Rosenberg, appearing before the Senate armed services preparedness subcommittee, said that the military gets as little as eight months use out of an inductee after he is trained under the present draft law.

She explained that basic training takes four months, a round-trip to Korea or another Far Eastern base takes as much as another four months and special training further reduces a draftee's actual utilization.

Earlier, Committee Chairman Johnson lashed out at the Defense Department for its delay in presenting its 18-year-draft proposals in legislative form.

The military's answer to a proposed ban against sending 18-year-old draftees to Western Europe or other overseas theaters is due to be given Congress today.

JOHNSON PROPOSED such a restriction yesterday. He hinted that without the amendment, Congress might turn thumbs down on a bill to draft 18-year youths.

Mrs. Rosenberg said she will consult with Defense Secretary Marshall and top military officials on the matter.

However, Mrs. Rosenberg said there might be some 18-year-olds in units assigned out of the country. To pull them out of their units at the last minute, she declared, might disrupt morale and endanger the efficiency of the group.

Johnson replied that it would be less damaging "than not to get 18-year-olds in the first place."

Sen. Saltonstall, (R) Mass., immediately supported the Johnson.

Too Much Lard In Budget, Say GOP Spokesmen

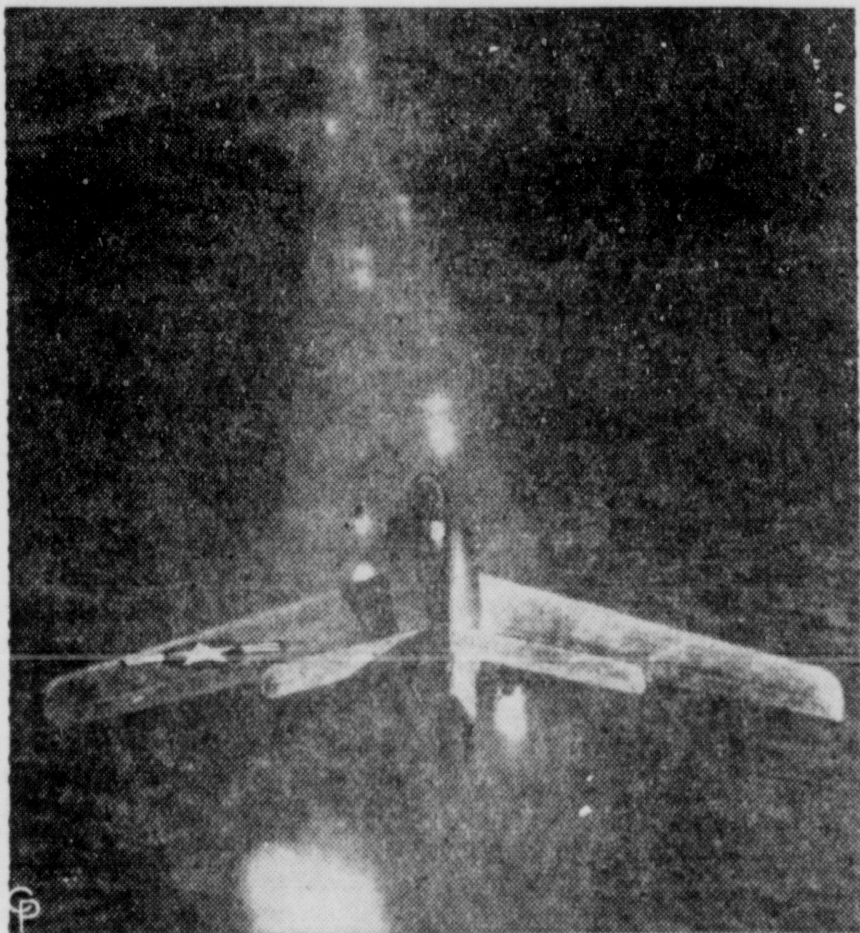

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—Congress was asked by one of its Republican leaders today to shelve President Truman's tax increase request until it tries squeezing needed rearmament funds from non-defense items in the new $71 billion government budget.

House Republican Leader Martin, Mass., in response to the President's expected proposal of a 16 to 20 billion dollar tax hike, declared there are billions in non-essential civilian activities larded into the budget request Mr. Truman laid before Congress this week.

Rep. Taber, of New York, GOP economy chief in the Republican-controlled 80th Congress, placed the figure at $5 billion "at least." He said he will search the budget again for more reducible outlays.

The Republican spokesmen's concern grew out of the fact that with proposed spending in the next fiscal year set at $71.6 billion.

CITY TOLD 'GET ON BALL'

Circleville May Lose Its National Guard Company

Circleville has been warned that unless it "gets on the ball," it probably will lose its National Guard company about March 1.

The warning came from Maj. Francis Folk of Chillicothe, executive officer of the Third Battalion, 166th Regimental Combat Team, of which Circleville's Co. I is a part.

Folk, who spoke before the Monday evening meeting of Circleville Kiwanis Club, declared that the local Guard unit "is far below quota in manpower." He added:

"The roster now is about 35 men. Its March 1 quota is 51 men. Unless that figure is reached, National Guard headquarters 'will have little choice but to place the unit in a community which appreciates it and will support it.'"

Declaring that the National Guard is needed at full strength as a defensive measure in event of an emergency, Folk said that full company strength was a must. He added:

"CIRCLEVILLE is the only unit within the Third Battalion which has failed to meet its quota. The community should see its duty and get on the ball."

Speaking strictly from a business point of view to the businessmen who heard his talk, Folk pointed out the financial contribution the local National Guard unit makes to this community.

He cited that in 1950—on pay—

Work Relief Is Ended By Commissioners

One more grocery order, then all work relief in Pickaway County will be cut off.

That was the decision made Monday afternoon by the county commissioners. The decision was made following a request earlier in the day from three reliefers "to have the matter ironed out."

The three were among a group removed from the local dole last week by Relief Director Pauline Reese after they returned home from a work detail.

On the detail were five men receiving county general relief and six getting soldiers relief.

Commissioners explained that the grocery order was allowed "to provide food for the children while their fathers are seeking work."

Commissioners made it plain that the stoppage of work relief applied to everyone, not just to the men who returned from the work detail.

NO ONE NATION CAN PULL OFF BY ITSELF

Ike Says Best West Defense Plan Is For Free Men To Stick Together

LONDON, Jan. 16—Western European Defense Commander Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower declared today that "the only way the free world can defend itself successfully is for the free world to stand together."

Winding up his initial talks with British officials on a program to defend the western continent against Communist aggression, the American military leader said:

"I do not believe any one country, no matter how strong, can afford to pull off and go by itself."

The statements by Eisenhower were viewed as an indirect answer to the recent plea by Former President Herbert Hoover and others that the United States quit Europe and concentrate its attention on building up Western Hemisphere defenses.

Questioned concerning the link between the Pacific and the Atlantic in respect to the Western World, he explained that "what happens in the Pacific is important too," and added:

"It is important to international world morale and we could not possibly divorce any one area from all the others."

Referring to the problem of maintaining Western Allied unity, Eisenhower said: "As I see it, it is a job for leadership."

In reply to a question on whether he thought the absence of the Irish Republic would weaken the defense of the Atlantic Pact nations, the general answered:

"You are getting me dangerously close to politics, but my arms would open for any free country which wants to get into it."

"I never have had too many allies in a fight."

Eisenhower said he has been heartened by the results so far of his tour of Western European nations which he began early last week to assess their potential contributions to his defense force.

Eisenhower said:

"I have been cheered by the obvious readiness of the governments and citizens to meet the onerous requirements of the task."

The general, after starting out from France, visited the capitals of Belgium, the Netherlands, Denmark and Norway before arriving in London.

He leaves by air today for Portugal and Italy.

Reiterating that the success of the Western defense effort has its "foundation in the heart of free peoples," Eisenhower said:

"In that great foundation of heart there is no country that need take a back seat. Each can aspire to be a leader."

Eisenhower then urged each country to say to itself: "We intend to put into this effort one more man-hour in proportion to our size than anyone else."

"If we can live up to that simple little doctrine we need have no fear."

Eisenhower said that his feelings, as he returned to London over the weekend for the first time since the end of World War II, were best described by the American expression: "This is where I came in."

Continuing, he said:

"You can be sure of one thing. I thoroughly believe the only way the free world can defend itself successfully is for the free world to stick together."

Probing Offensive Started

Yanks 17 Miles South Of Seoul

TOKYO, Jan. 17—(Wednesday)—Tank-led American Third Division troops captured the rail-highway hub of Suwon, only 17 miles south of Communist-held Seoul, Tuesday afternoon after defeating a Red defense force in hot street-to-street fighting.

A front dispatch from International News Service War Correspondent Lee Ferrero said the enemy troops fled north along the main road to Seoul.

Ferrero said the Reds were pursued as far as the airfield north of Suwon and the Americans then withdrew at nightfall to an undisclosed position south of Suwon.

The battle for Suwon opened as the American force pushed north in a 10-mile advance from Osan, which was retaken Monday.

The Reds attacked with small arms and automatic weapons, but quickly fell back into the city where they were routed in the street-to-street fighting by superior firepower of the American troops, including tank guns.

THE THIRD Division's surprise push was part of a series of United Nations offensive probing thrusts from a line shortened by the Second Division's strategic withdrawal from the Wonju bulge in Central Korea.

A later dispatch from Ferrero quoted a Third Division spokesman, commenting on the Suwon action, as saying a patrol in strength is usually withdrawn after completing its mission or reaching its objective.

The dispatch, received at 9:40 Tuesday night added:

"The object of the tank column which occupied Osan and then moved on to Suwon was to make initial contact with the enemy and withdraw."

There was no elucidation of this passage in the field dispatch which had to be cleared through the Eighth Army's recently instituted censorship.

Earlier front dispatches quoted the Eighth Army briefing officer as saying three Chinese Red army corps were poised north of Suwon for a possible new frontal assault on the UN forces which are presently probing northward.

Ferrero reported that a second UN armored column in the west sector attempted to drive north from Kumyangjang but received heavy automatic weapons fire from Red troops dug in on nearby hills.

KUMYANGJANG, captured Monday, is nine miles east-southeast of Suwon, and 21 miles southeast of Seoul.

The column that liberated Suwon from the Red invaders' grip left Osan early Tuesday morning after American Army engineers repaired an important bridge along Korea's main railway artery.

This powerful force, Ferrero reported from Eighth Army field headquarters, met no opposition until it reached within a mile south of Suwon.

At that point the Americans encountered an enemy group which was overcome in a short but fierce fight. The Americans

Police Mailing 170 'Requests'

Nearly 170 requests for command performances were put into the mails Tuesday by Circleville police department.

Officer Turney Ross said the requests were in the form of postcards, reminding motorists that they owe the city for parking tickets.

About 140 of the invitations were mailed to persons in Circleville while the remainder were for those in other communities.

Written at the bottom of each card was a statement that further action will be taken if the request goes unheeded.

COUNTY TO TURN NEW LEAF

Bloodmobile Quota 'Sure' This Time, Chiefs Report

Pickaway County should have little trouble in filling its 144-pint American Red Cross Blood Bank quota here Jan. 26 when the Bloodmobile rolls into Circleville.

Making this quota will be a long-sought-for feather-in-the-hat for Circleville. Since the Red Cross instigated the program, this county has failed to meet its quota at any time. Last visit here, the Bloodmobile left without one drop of blood.

Final plans for the first 1951 visit of the Bloodmobile were completed Monday night during ing a meeting of the local campaign committee.

Charles Weidinger, co-chairman of the local recruiting program with Paul Hang, said response has been so enthusiastic that donors have been scheduled for two and three months ahead.

"During the last two weeks," Weidinger reported, "many county organizations received suggestions that they furnish five percent of their membership for each visit of the Bloodmobile."

"IN EVERY CASE where the organization has reported back, the response has been gratifying," he said.

The Bloodmobile is expected to handle a total of 165 persons in its first visit here this year. The unit is capable of serving six persons every 15 minutes.

Weidinger said that appoint-

Divorcee's Glove Reported Found

CLEVELAND, Jan. 16—A white glove, believed to have been dropped by Mrs. Minerva Braddock of Washington C. H., indicated today that the missing divorcee was in Cleveland Dec. 18, one day after she disappeared.

Sheriff Orland Hays of Fayette County said here last night that the glove, picked up by a salesman, matched one found in Mrs. Braddock's car.

The salesman told police he saw a woman drop the glove after parking a green convertible on East Ninth street. He said he put it on the handle of her car when he was unable to overtake her. Mrs. Braddock, 32, was last seen by friends on the night of Dec. 17.

Plenty Of Enthusiasm In Aviation Is Shown Here As Move Is Made To Form CAP Squadron

Enthusiasm for aviation in Pickaway County is far from dead.

It was demonstrated at Elsea-Harmon Airport here Monday night as preliminary moves were made toward the formation of a Civilian Air Patrol squadron.

About 50 persons turned out for the planning conference. There were 20-odd youths, all under 18, who were eager to learn more about aircraft and to become qualified airmen whether aground or a wing.

And there were about 35 oldsters who are to make up the nucleus of the squadron here. Among them were several World War II veteran fliers. They represented hundreds of hours in the air and experiences in dozens of countries.

Still more youngsters are expected to put in for CAP cadet training and another 15 or 20 "senior" squadmen are needed for final formation of the local unit.

The "senior" element does not necessarily have to be made up of men who have prior experience as pilots, navigators, radio-men, mechanics, etc. They will find other important tasks to do within the organization.

The squadron has two primary jobs: (a) to help train cadets in the fundamentals of aviation — from the ground up; and (b) to perform important tasks in civilian defense in the event of enemy attack or alert.

Another meeting will be held in the Elsea-Harmon airport hangar in about ten days—Thursday, Jan. 25.

At that time, further applications from both cadets and seniors will be taken. Shortly thereafter, a training program will be set up for both age groups.

Local backers indicated Monday night that the Circleville CAP unit will not operate in conjunction with the Chillicothe CAP as first had been announced.

Instead, the Circleville CAP squadron will be a separate and independent unit operating directly under officials at Wright-Patterson Airforce Base near Dayton.

Already, the local squadron is lining up text books, study manuals and equipment for the detailed course of study.

It is nearly certain that included among the pieces of equipment will be two-way radio transmission apparatus and a Link trainer.

Once the local squadron is chartered, it will be loaned at least one light aircraft by CAP chieftains.

Then will come the scheduling of a detailed program of study—for both cadets and seniors.

Uniforms will be furnished by CAP. Study classes of at least two hours a week will be planned. And the Circleville CAP squadron will become a reality.

Cadets will be in line for special training at the Wright-Patterson base along with the possible chance of snagging an overseas exchange assignment.

Membership in the local squadron will have no direct bearing on possible call to military service. The CAP still is a civilian outfit. However, cadets in CAP probably will be given special look-see by the Airforce when they become of enlistment age.

Dope Peddler Roundup Starts

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—New York police launched today what they described as the biggest roundup of dope peddlers in recent years. One source said that more than 50 "pushers" would be arrested in the next 48 hours.

The police move came as an aftermath to the arrest last night of two men, one a 19-year-old student, seized as peddlers of heroin in Bronx high school students. Narcotic squadmen followed that action with wholesale arrests of peddlers in Brooklyn today.

Byrnes Demands Korea Pullout Unless UN Acts

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 16—James F. Byrnes declared today that American troops should be withdrawn from Korea unless the United Nations brands Communist China as an aggressor.

The former secretary of state was sworn in as the 78th governor of South Carolina in a colorful ceremony at the state capitol.

In his inaugural address, Byrnes declared that troops should be withdrawn from Korea unless the UN brands Communist China as an aggressor, authorizes the American Airforce to attack enemy supply bases and joins in blockading China.

At the same time, he pledged support for the government's foreign policy, issued a strong appeal for national unity, and declared that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower should decide the question of sending troops to Europe.

Byrnes said: "We must rouse our friends in Europe, impress upon them that the time has come to stop talking and begin acting."

He said Western Germany should be encouraged to raise an army and declared that the U. S. "should send Spain more than an ambassador. We should seek the friendship of Tito and furnish military supplies to Yugoslavia."

then smashed into Suwon and shortly thereafter hurled the Reds out of that city which has an important air field nearby.

Suwon was the fourth town recaptured by the American Third Division since it launched its northward push Monday.

It was the first major communications center recovered by UN forces since the Chinese and North Korean hordes opened their offensive 17 days ago that overran Seoul and other key points.

Besides Osan and Kumyang-jang, UN troops also recaptured Iori on Monday. That town is 40 miles east of Suwon.

Tank-paced Eighth Army patrol columns were ramming north at several points along a front extending 50 miles inland from the west coastal area.

BELOW THE bomb-battered central pivot of Wonju, 50 miles east of Suwon, American Second Division troops shot probing units five miles back into Red territory. These thrusts followed the Second Division's retirement from the area where thousands of the enemy were slain in 16 days of fighting.

Ferrero reported that the Eighth Army's forward units were receiving artillery as well as aerial support and that Red troops were thus driven out of Osan, Kumyangjang and Iori.

However, powerful Chinese forces were in position north of Suwon, toward which the Third Division's vanguards were thrusting.

In Tuesday's air action the Communists offered one of their rare challenges to American attacks.

The Fifth Airforce announced that one Soviet-type Yak plane was believed destroyed when two B-26 light bombers near Pyongyang's port of Chinnampo. The bulletin said the B-26s were undamaged.

Divorce Granted; 2 Other Writs Are Filed Here

The wife was awarded the divorce and restoration of her former name, Martha Mae Hamilton.

Also in common pleas court two divorce petitions have been filed by Cecil Cook against Harold Cook and by Charles F. Smith against Betty L. Smith.

She asks for the divorce, that the husband be enjoined from molesting her or disposing of property and for temporary and permanent alimony. The restraining order was granted by Judge Radcliff.

The petition filed by Charles F. Smith states he married Betty L. Smith Oct. 2, 1949, in Circleville. They have no children. The husband accuses the wife of gross neglect of duty.

Students Find It's Tough Job To Talk To Joe

NASHVILLE, Jan. 16—Three Vanderbilt university students learned yesterday that "you gotta know Joe" if you want to talk with Russian Premier Josef Stalin.

The overseas telephone operator in New York told the trio they must wait from two to three days to get a call through to the Kremlin.

The students are Jimmy Threlkeld, 17, of Tupelo, Miss.; Hans Paul, 20, of Steubenville and Charles Newman, 18, of Cookeville, Tenn.

Threlkeld said the operator told him there were other reasons, too, why there was "some delay" on the call. All the reasons, as Threlkeld summed them up, were:

1—They are not personally acquainted with Stalin.

2—They are not relatives of the Russian dictator.

3—They don't know Joe's Moscow telephone number.

"But the operator assured me the call would be put through," added Threlkeld.

He explained that fear of military service interrupting their education prompted the trio to make the call. He continued: "We want Stalin to confirm or deny reports that ten Red divisions are being sent to Europe, and we want him to explain why Jacob Malik keeps on vetoing every peace proposal that comes up in the United Nations."

Fair Board Tightens Down On Expenses

Austerity will be the order of the day for Pickaway County Fair's sixth year of revived existence.

A meeting of the fair board Monday night brought out the following facts:

1. This year's fair will open officially Tuesday, July 31, and close Friday night, August 3.

2. There will be no pari-mutuel betting at harness races.

3. Granges will be asked to furnish personnel to man the gates.

4. Rides will be furnished by Poulson Company instead of Howard Shows, as in former years.

John Heiskell, fair board secretary, explained that pari-mutuel betting was ruled out for 1951 because the expense of installing a starting gate, required under law for pari-mutuel betting, would probably send this year's races into the red.

Heiskell said that last year the fair barely broke even on pari-mutuel betting. It was installed for the first time last year.

The fair manager added, however, that there probably will be three afternoons of harness racing in the 1951 fair.

As another indication of an austerity program, the fair board indicated they would try to cut down on overhead by asking county Granges to supply men to handle gate jobs. According to Heiskell, last year's labor bill was approximately $1,000.

The board discussed possibilities of having a Family Day and Children's Day this year, with special game, ride features and games races.

Although the fair will open officially on July 31, the midway and exhibits will be set up the day before. There will be no gate admission charged that day.

Glander Quits As Tax Chief

COLUMBUS, Jan. 16—Speculation as to who will be Ohio's next tax commissioner was aroused today by the resignation of C. Emory Glander.

Glander, who first was appointed to the four-year $9,000 a year post by Former Governor John Bricker, handed his resignation to Governor Lausche late

A BOTTLE of what may prove to be successful as a "substitute" for blood plasma in treatment of shock is held by Dr. Walter L. Blum, 34-year-old biochemist who developed it at Emory university, Atlanta, Ga. Called dextran, the solution could be vital in event of atomic warfare, since doctors say the nation's supply of plasma would be inadequate for all shock cases after an A-bomb attack. ment cards will be sent to persons who have pledged to donate blood, insuring a constant flow of donors in the program.

"The unit may be able to handle a few 'walk-ins' also," Weidinger explained, "in case regular donors are rejected or are unable to attend."

The committee reported that all arrangements for medical assistants and nurses for the program have been completed. Local doctors and nurses will be used throughout the visit.

Weidinger added that because of the response to the first call for donors, some donors have been accepted for the February and March visits of the Bloodmobile.

IN ORDER to be available to everyone interested in giving blood, the first program will begin at 11 a. m. and continue through 4:45 p. m. Jan. 26; the second visit will begin at 1 p. m. and continue through 6:45 p. m. Feb. 19; and the March visit will begin at 10 a. m. and continue through 3:45 p. m.

"We have a good many persons pledged now," Weidinger pointed out, "but our quota may rise sharply before the year is over."

Next meeting of the general committee for the program is to be held Jan. 29 for a review of the first visit of the unit.

killed Robert Dewey of Seattle, stole his car and fled into Lower California.

Missouri accuse him of wiping out an Illinois family of five—Carl Mosser, his wife and their three small children.

The bodies of the Mossers were recovered yesterday from the deep shaft of an abandoned mine a block from the young desperado's boyhood home in Joplin, Mo.

WHILE FLEEING with a California deputy sheriff he kidnapped and held prisoner for a short time last Jan. 6, Cook told of the five killings in Missouri, plus two in Oklahoma.

But yesterday, in what may have been the first move toward a later plea of insanity, he denied he ever harmed anyone.

Cook was captured in the small mining town of Santa Rosalia, 600 miles south of the border.

Two prospectors, once listed as his probable ninth and tenth victims, since they disappeared right after the fugitive fled into Lower California, were with him, unharmed.

They said they had been forced to drive the badman around Lower California while he kept them covered constantly with a pistol.

The capture was made by Francisco Kraus Morales, chief of police of Tijuana.

India Believes Reds To OK Plan

NEW DELHI, Jan. 16—India's home minister declared today he believes that Communist China will accept the United Nations peace proposal.

Speaking at a banquet, Chakravarty Rajagopalachari, the minister, declared:

"I believe we have turned a critical corner. Prime Minister Nehru's hard, long battle is about to end in victory."

This was a reference to the efforts of the Indian prime minister, who spearheaded a peace bloc, to act as a mediator between the East and the West in the Korean crisis.

roll alone—Co. I dropped a total of $17,687 into local channels of trade.

In addition, he said, there was a large amount of money spent with local business houses for necessary maintenance and operation supplies.

He said that if the local company were operating at full strength, the annual payroll here would be in excess of $50,000.

Saying that he was not "waving a flag," he pointed out the U. S. Constitution makes "every citizen a member of the 'militia' and has been since the first unit was formed in New England in 1640.

Taft, Wherry Rap Right To Commit Troops

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—Senator Taft charged last night that President Truman is seeking the right of "the deliberate making of aggressive war" by committing American troops to the Western European defense force.

The Ohio Republican called on Congress to save the nation from what he termed a constitutional crisis created by Mr. Truman. He said this threatens the liberties of the American people.

"If the President is right — and the Congress cannot pass a law to prevent the President from doing what he is doing — then we have complete control of the government by the executive."

Senate GOP Floor Leader Wherry of Nebraska also challenged President Truman's right to commit U. S. troops to Europe's defense without specific congressional approval.

Wherry's speech was prepared to accompany a formal motion calling up his resolution which would put the Senate on record against committing troops to Europe until Congress has settled the policy on this issue.

Observers in Washington noted that both the senator and his opponents apparently had forgotten their history books. There are dozens of cases where U. S. Presidents sent American troops into armed action to defend the national interest.

Examples: In 1802, Jefferson sent a naval expedition to war with the Barbary pirates; McKinley sent GIs into China in 1900 to help quell the Boxer rebellion; in 1912, President William Howard Taft established an American "protectorate" over Nicaragua with the Marines in charge.

lion, there will be a total revenue intake of only $55 billion. The tax increase, which the President has still only requested in general terms, is intended to offset the anticipated $16.5 billion deficit.

Martin, who has some Democratic support, declared:

"There are billions in the budget that can be cut and we should make an earnest effort to reduce non-essential spending before we vote any new taxes."

There appears little doubt, meanwhile, that what Congress will give the President substantially what he asked for in the way of national defense. For the armed forces, the President requested almost $61 billion, plus another $11 billion for military-economic aid abroad.

According to Sara Loraine Beck, Box 253, Coker, Alabama, when a person is only 15 years old and feels terrible, can't eat or sleep the way they should, it's mighty bad. That is the way Loraine says she used to feel, but that was, of course, before she started taking H A D A C O L. Loraine found that taking H A D A C O L helped her system overcome deficiencies in Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron, which H A D A C O L contains.

Here is Loraine Beck's own statement: "I was run-down, sick and skinny, and weighed only 90 pounds before I used HADACOL. I would not eat because I had no appetite. Now I weigh 123 pounds and have an appetite. I feel a lot better. I have been taking HADACOL 10 months and am still taking it. I am 15 years old. HADACOL has done me lots of good."

ADMITTING THAT "every citizen" may not be on "active duty" in the National Guard, Folk said that "we do owe a service to the country we live in."

The National Guard's present day mission calls for providing immediate trained manpower in the event of an emergency.

It also was pointed out that members of a National Guard company are not subject to draft.

Folk reported that officers of the local National Guard company are of "excellent" quality. He pointed out that two of them—Lt. John McGinnis and Lt. Jack White—"soon will be taking time out from their own private professions and at a loss of pay to take a three-month training period in the Army's infantry school at Ft. Benning.

He said that "this adds up to personal sacrifice and it would do us a little more good if we as citizens would sacrifice a little more."

TRUMAN CITES NEEDS

Brannan Plan OK Asked Again, But Half-Heartedly

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—President Truman asked Congress again yesterday to enact the Brannan Farm Plan and hinted he may seek new powers to reduce the price of food to consumers.

In his annual budget message, the President declared that legislation is needed to permit direct government payments to farmers "to avoid the unnecessary accumulation and loss on perishable agricultural commodities."

The President indicated, however, that he saw little chance of Congress enacting the highly-controversial Brannan Plan. He included nothing in the budget to underwrite the cost of the proposed program.

Mr. Truman did say that he would ask Congress to "broaden" the Defense Production Act "in several important respects," but did not specify whether he would seek new authority to roll back food prices.

Teacher Lobby Files Bill For New Pay Scale

COLUMBUS, Jan. 16 — The Ohio Education Association's initiated bill providing minimum teacher's salaries ranging from $1,800 to $4,520 a year, has been filed with the clerk of the house of representatives.

Governor Lausche has recommended a minimum teacher's salary of $2,400, but without annual increases.

The measure was taken up yesterday by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, who certified that 189,085 of the 205,719 signatures obtained by the measure's backers were valid.

The bill required only 86,789 valid signatures to be placed before the legislature. If the legislature fails to act favorably on the measure, the OEA may circulate new petitions to place the matter directly before the voters.

The formula for minimum pay—the bill does not affect maximum pay—provides $1,800 a year plus $100 a year additional for the first ten years for uncertified teachers. The formula continues to advance until it guarantees $2,600, plus $120 a year for 16 years, for teachers with masters degrees.

Ronnie Rivers and Bob Brobst gave demonstration of cleaning an air cleaner. Next meeting will be held Jan. 27 in the Bowers Tractor Sales room.

Colleges Asking Change In Draft

CHICAGO, Jan. 16 — Fifteen Midwest college deans have asked the armed forces to halt voluntary enlistments and give draftees their choice of services.

The educators, meeting at the University of Chicago, asserted yesterday that such action would keep universities from losing students who are tempted to enlist in advance of the draft so they can choose their branch of service.

The meeting was called by Deans Robert M. Strozier of the University of Chicago, Fred H. Turner of the University of Illinois and Victor F. Spathe of Wayne university, Detroit.

No Living Off Land, VA Says

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—Stern armchair militarists who urge that U. S. soldiers "live off the land" as the Russian army does got a setback at least in principle today.

The Veterans Administration announced that the National Soldiers' Home is dismantling its 146-acre farm soon so the land can be used as sites for much-needed new buildings.

An official said the institution's herd of 200 registered cattle probably will be auctioned off and its flock of 11,000 chickens killed and stored for the tables in the home dining room.

The three defendants allegedly admitted during their five day-long trial that they had worked against the state and supposedly confessed to acts of treason and espionage.

CENSORSHIP IN KOREA
THROUGHOUT most of the fighting in Korea, the American military authorities were unable to reach a firm decision on the question of censorship. The correspondents, placed on their own, and often without broad strategic information, were placed in an anomalous position. The Army refused to impose censorship even on technical information, until three weeks ago.

This partial censorship, imposed at the time of the Hungnam evacuation, has now been broadened into a censorship so tight, formidable and threatening as to curb even an expression of opinion on the correspondents' part. Correspondents are not permitted to use the word "retreat," for example, nor can dispatches contain matter which would injure morale or "embarrass the United States, its allies or neutral countries." Court-martial is threatened for violators.

No objection can be offered to a censorship that protects military security; in fact, correspondents asked for this months ago and were refused. Now, the Army, perhaps upset at the attacks of the British press on the truth, or otherwise, of American communiques, goes the limit in the other direction.

To confound confusion, General MacArthur's headquarters announces that no further communiques will issue from that source, this function now being devolved upon lower commands in the field.

The Army will be performing an act not in the national interest if it attempts to suppress unfavorable facts about Korea or to protect individual reputations or to pose the position of the U. S. forces otherwise than it is. Protect tactical information, protect information that might cost lives or cause reverses, if published—yes. Conceal the truth about Korea in the guise of not offending the sensibilities of neutrals, or otherwise—no.

WORRIED YOUTH
PSYCHIATRISTS say draft policies are undermining the mental health of Americans. Young men and their relatives are kept on needles and pins for months wondering when and if their lives are going to be interrupted by removal of the youth for training and perhaps for service on fighting lines thousands of miles from these shores.

No one likes to live under the sword of Damocles, suspended by a thread, and in uncertainty about when it might drop. That is similar to the existence of the peoples behind the iron curtain, who are in constant fear that the secret police will tap them on the shoulder.

It is bad enough to live in a world constantly menaced by war without being subjected to the constant uncertainty of what the government's vacillating policy may bring from day to day.

Labor Leaders Demanding Wage Board Independence | Union Chiefs Criticizing Economic Boss Valentine

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Labor is unhappy about the operations of Economic Stabilizer Alan Valentine, former University of Rochester president, and wants a stronger advocate in mobilization circles. This is behind the demands of the country's top union leaders that President Truman give Cyrus S. Ching's wage board broader authority and independent status. It is now under Valentine's jurisdiction. Union sources claim they blocked only at the last minute an order by Valentine that would have suspended the cost-of-living and other escalator wage clauses in the auto industry's contracts.

CIO United Auto Workers officials contend such a move would create grave industrial unrest in auto plants which are counted on to shoulder a heavy part of the nation's rearmament effort.

Union spokesmen assert that Valentine prepared an order knocking out the provisions tying auto wages to rising living costs but word of it got out when it was shown to the wage board. Members there bitterly opposed the decree and it was never issued.

The wage board feels it cannot ask the auto workers and thousands of other workers to give up such contract safeguards when the cost of living is still rising and effective price control is still weeks or months away.

Labor wants Mr. Truman to give Ching's board full and independent control on wage stabilization and the power to settle disputes and adjust inequities arising under such a program. Labor and industry both are represented on the board.

George E. Sokolsky's
These Days

It is unfortunate that a quarrel over the constitutional powers of the President and the Congress has developed at this moment of tragic defeat of our country on both the military and diplomatic fronts. The quarrel is a reflex to the antagonism in Congress to Dean Acheson, whom the President supports.

Some members of Congress insist that the so-called UN (90 percent American) police action in Korea is a device to avoid submitting the question of a declaration of war to Congress, which alone has the constitutional power in the matter. Some further contend that American troops may not be sent to Europe without the consent of Congress.

President Truman contends that the President possesses implied powers; that unless the Constitution specifically forbids him to take an action, he can do "anything" that he deems it necessary to do.

Involved in all this are the treaty-making powers of the President, requiring ratification by the Senate. A treaty becomes the law of the land. The issue over the North Atlantic Treaty raises the further question as to whether representatives of the administration did or did not lie to the Senate as to the nature of our commitments.

As a practical proposition, the President can do just about anything. Only three restraints are placed upon him:

1. Congressional reprisal by a failure to vote him money;
  2. A Supreme Court decision on an action which involves a provision of the Constitution;
  3. An impeachment of the President.
- All three are not within practicality in relation to the matters now being discussed in "the great debate." With Americans being killed in war, no Congress will refuse funds for military action. A Supreme Court decision takes a long time, particularly on a complicated matter of a presidential implementation of a treaty.

It is doubtful whether the Supreme Court would consider the question of a treaty being used as a subterfuge to void the authority of Congress. Even if lawyers found a way to bring such a matter before the Supreme Court, it would all take so long that it would be academic at the moment of decision. History does not wait for the Supreme Court.

There has only been one attempt to impeach a President in the United States and it ended in failure. The Constitution provides:

"The President, vice-president and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors."

It also provides:

"The House of Representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers; and shall have the sole power of impeachment;" and

"The Senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present."

The method is cumbersome, slow and obviously fruitless. It is not at this moment within the realm of probability that a Democratic House of Representatives will manage an impeachment or that the Senate can muster a two-thirds vote in favor of such an impeachment.

Therefore, the President can, as a practical proposition, do anything he chooses to.

DIET AND HEALTH
Anxiety Affects the Heart

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PHYSICIANS who specialize in the treatment of this or that organ are increasingly aware that mind and body are knit together in innumerable ways to form one whole. The things which affect the spirit—depression, anxieties, and frustrations—are almost sure to be reflected in the way the body performs.

To this rule, the heart is no exception. Palpitation, or rapid and noticeable beating of the heart, has long been known to be connected with nervous conditions. More recently it has been demonstrated that other disturbances in the heart rhythm may develop during periods of emotional stress. Indeed, many physicians are beginning to believe that any state of anxiety which renders a person constantly unhappy can be more disabling than the actual changes in the heart beat which it produces.

Type of Anxiety
Another disorder which seems to be due to the same type of anxiety is one known as neuro-circulatory asthenia. Such patients suffer from attacks of fatigue and weakness, palpitation of the heart, sweating, and similar symptoms. What is known as psychotherapy or mental treatment may bring about a great improvement in these persons, particularly insofar as their ability to carry on their work is concerned.

An interesting case is described of a soldier who developed neuro-circulatory asthenia when in the first World War. In the second World War he again developed the same disorder but, when he was separated from the service, the trouble disappeared. He was able to carry on his ordinary life as a normal being, but when faced with the strain of military service, his disturbance became aggravated.

Death and Letters
By ELIZABETH DALY

CHAPTER ONE

THERE was a row of narrow casement windows across the east end of the bedroom, and a sash window shut tightly and screwed down.

To the north old trees, barely in leaf, screened the view up-river. A pale, cold April light, subdued by grey skies, came into the room bleakly. It was a comfortable, old-fashioned room, replete with Victorian knick-knacks. Logs burned in the fireplace.

A nurse in uniform sat beside the north window, doing a jigsaw puzzle. She was a squat, dark woman, and the sharp lights from her cap and dress brought out greenish tints in her sallow skin. She had the bulging forehead of obstinacy, and there was strength in every motion of her short arms. She must have known that she was not much to look at, and perhaps she thought that that was why her patient sat with her back turned.

The patient had moved her little bony-legged desk from under the casement windows to the corner next them on the right; it was now under a looking-glass in a painted velvet frame. The patient had said she got the light better that way, and certainly she must have needed all the light there was for her eternal crossword puzzles. She was doing one now, out of a little paper-bound book. There were printed forms and business envelopes on the desk-heap, but she had pushed them and the ink and pen-tray aside.

She seemed to be making heavy work of her puzzle just now. She filled in squares, rubbed out letters, sat in thought, looked up often at the mirror, which reflected the nurse's cap.

She was perhaps forty years old, and she might once have been a beautiful woman; now she looked pale and worn. She was very thin. Undoubtedly she had had an illness. But her dark hair was carefully dressed, and she was very neat and smart in plain black, with thin black silk stockings and black suede shoes.

The nurse said, "Don't tire yourself out, now, Mrs. Coldfield."

"No."

Mrs. Coldfield watched the cap in the looking-glass, but it wasn't moving. She filed in the last blanks of her puzzle; with dots substituting for the black squares, it looked like this:

She turned the thin page, and the nurse spoke again, "You going to do another? How they coming?"

"Not very well. They're rather hard—for me."

The nurse had come across the room and was looking over her shoulder. She said, "I'd go crazy. They're trouble."

"Only trouble, they're not so-able. How'd you like to help me with this jigsaw I'm doing? You can talk and do jigsaws."

"I'd like to go on with this for a while."

The nurse, disgusted, went down the long room and through a communicating bath to another bedroom beyond. The patient's eyes followed her. She came back with an open box of candy.

"Have one?"

"Not before tea, thank you."

The nurse went back to her jigsaw. Irritating, she thought, how she never calls a person by name; as if you didn't have a name or weren't there. But you couldn't irritate her... not if you tried.

The patient turned a leaf to an untouched diagram. She worked faster now:

● SUCKER'S BET—North Atlantic Pact Defense officials frankly believe that the odds against successfully repulsing a Red invasion of Western Europe are so great as to constitute a "sucker's bet."

As of today, they declare, Communist forces could overrun the European democracies "at will." That is why there has been so much emphasis in the Truman-Acheson talks on speed-up of what amounts to a virtually defenseless Europe.

The odds to be overcome go something like this:

Soviet Russia could today flood Western Europe with an army of 100 divisions—and still have 50 or more in reserve. Soviet Russia could mount an aerial offensive at the start of a European war with an estimated 10,000 first-line tactical planes.

The free nations aren't giving out any numbers on the divisions at hand to repulse any Red move, but the situation speaks for itself in the fact that plans presently call for 40 to 50 divisions by 1953.

As for air cover, the Allies have an estimated 500 jets and 100 tactical planes on hand in Europe.

The only thing holding back the Russians, pact leaders believe, is the United States atomic stockpile, believed to number in the hundreds as compared to Russia's estimated two dozen.

Foster, just back from a trip around the world, reports that most of Southeast Asia is "fabulously rich in resources" and can readily earn the necessary foreign money including dollars.

He says that with "good counsel, technical aid and friendly assistance" a great treasure of "human aspirations and resources" will be added to the productive capacity of the free world.

Be Your Own Efficiency Expert At Laundry Time, Home Agent Here Urges

Drudgery Said Not Necessary

"Perhaps if we serve as our own efficiency expert, we can save ourselves much of the drudgery which goes with the weekly laundry job."

This encouragement was passed on to Pickaway County homemakers Tuesday by Miss Genevieve Alley, county home demonstration agent.

Giving tips on proper laundry procedure and washer care, Miss Alley reported:

Your present washer, if it is of the wringer type, may have several years of good life ahead. Your wringer washer can be used as a semi-automatic type simply by changing the method of washing. The washer can be made to do the rinsing as well as the washing.

In homes where the washer is standing near the running hot and cold water supply, a hose connection between faucets and tub can assist greatly in filling the tub. If the hose has a hooked end or other device to hold it to the tub, it will be unnecessary to hand-hold the hose for filling.

After one load of clothes is washed, the wash water may be drained off. Hot or warm rinse water may be sprayed over the clothes to remove most of the top suds and soil. After the drain is closed, the machine is filled with warm water and the agitator is turned on.

If it is necessary to rinse a second time, the tub should be emptied and refilled. The articles may then be put through the wringer. This will help remove much of the handling of the clothing.

If the supply of water is limited, this may mean using too much of the supply, but it will mean much cleaner clothes.

This process would not be desirable if the water for filling and emptying the tub has to be carried.

In hard water areas, a synthetic detergent may well be used if this semi-automatic procedure in a wringer washer is followed.

A load or two of wash can be done every other day or at intervals suited to the routine activities of the day.

In View Of The News

By J. C. Oestreicher
INS Foreign Director

The subject of sending additional troops to Europe—a topic certain to stir up fiery debate whenever it is mentioned—is expected to be perhaps the major item of importance when Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower makes his European report to President Truman.

The newly-named commander of a projected European defense army is expected to return to Washington shortly.

He will discuss with the President his findings in France, Belgium, Denmark, Norway and England and then go back to Europe with what promises to be a firm and workable plan for integrating Western European armed forces against Communist aggression.

The American soldier angle will be high on the Truman-Eisenhower agenda. For it probably has become evident to Eisenhower by now that while the governments of Europe proclaim themselves ready to advance large sums for rearmament, popular psychology may need the spur and impetus of heavy American participation.

THIS IS BELIEVED to be particularly true of France and Germany.

The U. S. Airforce already has many bases in England and thus American uniforms are commonplace. The British have visible evidence in the form of men and planes that the United States is not holding aloof from the military affairs of Europe despite a growing clamor in some circles that it should do so.

There is no question that the charge has been and is being made in Europe that the United States is likely to loop upon the Europeans as "expedients" in event of a conflict with Soviet Russia.

The Communists have made copious use of this allegation and are doing everything possible to promote disunity and discontent and are spreading it as widely as possible.

Eisenhower probably has been able to judge just how deep an impression this campaign has made.

Amidst thousands of youths while president of Columbia university, Eisenhower was well able to judge the feeling among young men in the United States regarding military training. He made it clear in one speech that he considers America will not have been properly served unless all men were proud of having marched for their country or looked forward to doing so.

MANY OF EUROPE'S eligibles saw service in both world

Big Defense Housing Bill To Be Aired

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 — The administration launches its drive for passage of a big new defense housing program today.

Housing Administrator Raymond Foley goes before the Senate Banking Committee to explain and support the proposal to provide thousands of homes for defense workers through government-insured private financing and outright federal building.

The administration's measure, introduced by Banking Chairman Maybank, (D) S. C., would boost by $3 billion the ceiling on FHA guaranteed mortgages. In addition to housing, it provides for construction, either privately or publicly, of sewers, roads, water systems and other community facilities.

It is designed to meet the needs of huge atomic and other defense plants being built in unsettled areas.

Sen. Bricker, (R) Ohio, a banking committee member, promised sharp questioning of Foley in making his "power grab" charge.

Bricker asserted that the legislation was drafted by "political profiteers" who are using the defense program to get powers that Congress has refused them in the past.

wars. Many of the young ones, just now at conscription age, grew up in an era of dissension and indecision and have been the particular target of Communism since they were old enough to read.

How all this may figure when the time comes for preparation of an army for emergencies is almost impossible to foretell.

There still are conflicting versions of why the French army lacked discipline and fighting enthusiasm in 1939 and 1940.

Both Communism and Nazi fifth columnists were blamed although it is difficult to understand why these two opposite agencies should have been working toward the same end.

As a matter of fact, there is no question that Communists were active in the extreme as members of the French resistance movement during the occupation.

That has placed France in a difficult role now. For with the Western World arrayed against the Communist menace, France has had to turn her back on some of the men and women who did the most and fought most courageously against the Nazis after the collapse.

THIS TOO IS a matter that Eisenhower will consider in his report.

There are many French Communists who do not acknowledge allegiance to Moscow. There are even more who are supporters of other liberal and leftwing policies who think along Communist lines and insist this is their privilege and has nothing whatever to do with the Kremlin.

Europe, however, has done its best to make a good impression. Communist demonstrations against Eisenhower have been dealt with summarily.

He has heard pledges and promises, but also probably has listened to a good deal of conversation about the need for Americans on European soil.

Apple, Pear Prices To Hold Average, Claim

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 — The Agriculture Department says the average prices growers receive for apples and pears in January and February will approach those of the first two months last year.

But while apple and pear prices are expected to continue strong, the department says prices for most citrus fruits will average lower, because of increased production.

The department says that although the 1950 commercial apple crop was about a tenth smaller than the large 1949 crop, a larger proportion was of winter varieties.

Economic abandonment of apples was less than last year, and harvesting continued into late Fall. Cold-storage stocks of apples are considerably larger than stocks a year earlier.

The larger stocks of apples in storage will hold prices from rising a great deal.

Pears in storage are estimated at slightly larger than last winter. With demand strong for the smaller 1950 pear crop, grower prices were relatively high last Fall. Only small price changes are expected to take place this winter.

London Hears Mac Losing Powers

LONDON, Jan. 16—The London Evening News has reported that Gen. Douglas MacArthur "is going to be shorn of some of his powers."

The paper, which gave no confirmation or source, said that overall operational responsibility for the Korean campaign has been transferred to Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway and that "the intelligence side is also to be reformed."

Preacher's Son Is Given 10-12 Year Jail Term

MAYS LANDING, N. J., Jan. 16—A 13-year-old murderer today began a 10 to 12-year sentence imposed "for his own good" by a sorrowful judge before a weeping crowd in an Atlantic County courtroom.

Judge George T. Naame said in sentencing Arthur Crosser, "this is the hardest thing I have ever had to do. But I think you can become a good boy."

Arthur, who was only 12 at the time of the murder, is the adopted son of the Rev. and Mrs. Edward Crosser of Bridgeton, N. J.

He was running away from home because his parents were "too strict" when his stolen car crashed into an auto driven by Charles De Marco, 20, a fruit grower. De Marco got out to reprimand the boy, but Arthur shot him dead with a World War I gun he had taken from the minister's home.

OXIDE COLORING REVEALED
GE Chief Says Maybe You Have Uranium In Home

Pickaway Countians may not be aware of it, but they may have been handling a compound containing uranium—that potent stuff from which atomic bombs are made—for several years.

The disclosure was made Wednesday by Ed Grigg, manager of the Circleville General Electric lampworks.

But Grigg made the statement with a twinkle in his eye. He quoted the findings of a GE scientist, Dr. Louis Navias of Schenectady, N. Y., who claims that oxide of uranium was used for many years in the ceramics and glass industry for coloring glasses, ceramics and glazes.

The American public, just before the atomic age, quite innocently showed a dislike for uranium in at least one situation when a store stocked large quantities of inexpensive dishes, colored yellow with uranium oxide.

Battle Bonus For Korea Duty Is In Offing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—Assistant Defense Secretary Anna M. Rosenberg has disclosed that the Defense Department has approved "battle bonus" pay for the Army and Marine Corps retroactive to pre-Korea.

Mrs. Rosenberg told a Senate armed services subcommittee yesterday that the recommendations are before the Budget Bureau for final approval. She said she hopes to have the proposals ready for the subcommittee by tomorrow.

The Defense Department's manpower chief also disclosed that standards for bonus pay for all branches of the armed services are being revised on both a war and peacetime basis.

Mrs. Rosenberg referred to the extra pay for combat soldiers and Marines as "hazards pay." She said it will apply to combat areas and "in front of regimental headquarters."

Feed Grains Demand Going Up

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 — The Agriculture Department expects the demand and use of feed grains and concentrates this year to be much heavier than in 1950.

This will be due to greater emphasis put on the raising of livestock for the mobilization effort.

But the department says that the nation's feed grain and concentrates supply is a record proportions.

TV-Radio Programs

Programs listed in the following television log contain errors daily, the fault resting entirely with broadcasters and not with The Herald. Intent of this newspaper is to provide accurate information for subscribers, but finds this impossible so far as the three Columbus television stations are concerned. The programs printed are assembled from information sent out by the Columbus stations and are not to be regarded seriously. Complaints about inaccuracies in program listings should be made to the broadcasting stations and not to The Herald. Because of continuing inaccuracies, The Herald has been forced to delete all TV programs prior to 6 p. m. Radio programs are evening network listings.

Truman Guard Injured Again

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—White House Policeman Donald A. Birdzell returned to duty yesterday for the first time since he was shot while defending President Truman's life Nov. 1 and promptly suffered an injury which sent him back to the hospital.

Birdzell, who was wounded in both knees by the bullets of a would-be assassin, slipped on muddy ground as he was walking to take his post on the north lawn of the executive mansion.

Columbus Hit By Findings Of State Auditor

COLUMBUS, Jan. 16 — State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson today charged the city of Columbus with making expenditures of "questionable legality" totaling $1,111,670 during the year 1948.

A state examiner's report on city departments for the year said "illegal" payments totaled $159,918, represented by purchases over $500 made without bid or council authorization.

The auditor also listed $889,332 in other "questionable" expenditures over $500, made as emergency purchases when, Ferguson said, "the emergency condition claimed was questionable." The total included $443,200 spent for coal and $128,407 spent for gasoline.

Ferguson said the city continued to make the purchases under war emergency powers granted by city council during World War II, although "the war ended in 1945." He said "illegal" payments charged against the city from 1945 through 1948 now total $3,631,891.

Yankee Shuns Red Handshake

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—Washington is talking today about one gesture of friendliness by Russia that was rejected by the United States.

It occurred when news photographers covering U. S.-Soviet talks on Russia's $1 billion lend-lease yesterday suggested that Kremlin Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin and American Spokesman John C. Wiley shake hands for a picture.

The Soviet envoy stuck out his hand in compliance, but Wiley, ready to ask why the Russians were five years late on their debt payments, refused.

"This," he explained impatiently, "is not a prize fight."

Navy Reopens 4 Air Bases

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 — The Navy has reopened four wartime air bases to receive part of 47,000 enlisted reservists reporting for duty starting next April.

Two of the Navy installations, the air facility at Brunswick, Me., and the Sanford, Fla., auxiliary air station, probably will play an active part in Atlantic Coast defense activities.

The other units will be used for jet transition and helicopter training programs. They are the Kingsville, Tex., auxiliary air station and the Marine Corps air facility, Santa Ana, Calif.

Miller won four out of the five major stakes of the year taking first place in the Hambletonian, Little Brown Jug, Fox Stake and Horseman Stake. For Miller it was a jump from 23rd place in 1949 with only $56,239.28 to the top.

With Sanity Code Dead, Colleges Expect Boom In Player Payoffs

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—The champions of the late unaltered sanity code are afraid that now the code is dead, proselyting and subsidizing of college athletes will reach a new all-time high.

They may be right, but they oughtn't to be going around blaming it on the lack of a sanity code. The sanity code, which was supposed to govern aid to athletes, was unworkable from the start.

For one thing, it could not be enforced, but that was not its greatest defect. Its big fault was that it took a sin and cut it into degrees. It was all right to pay a football player, say, $80, but not $81.

It was said that the sanity code at least put a lid on how far a school could go in putting talent on a football field. In other words they did not want to let football get out of hand and go hog wild.

SO WITH ONE hand, they instituted the sanity code and with the other they built bigger stadia, signed television contracts, and lined up new and bigger post-season bowl games.

Now they think it would be a good idea to regulate the bowl games. They have also banned live telecasts of games for the 1951 season.

There is, they point out, nothing sinful or wrong about a good football game. It is good exercise for the players and great entertainment for the multitude.

So they knock out television to make sure a great percentage of the multitude won't be seeing the game.

Their argument as to that is that football gate receipts of-

Hall Of Famers To Be Honored By Nationals

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—A celebration honoring baseball's living Hall of Famers will constitute part of the program commemorating the 75th anniversary of the National League Feb. 2.

A plaque will be unveiled on the wall of the Broadway Central hotel in New York, scene of the birthplace of the senior circuit on Feb. 2, 1876.

National League President Ford Frick has estimated that 16 of the 21 living Hall of Famers will be present at the ceremonies in addition to other famous oldtime greats.

Frick said that Cy Young, Kid Nichols, George Sisler and Charley Gehringer have accepted an invitation to attend. Other Hall of Famers invited include Honus Wagner, Lefty Grove, Fred Clarke, Ed Walsh, Pie Traynor, Frankie Frisch, Carl Hubbell, Rogers Hornsby, Larry Lajoie, Connie Mack, Jess Burkett, Clark Griffith, Eddie Collins, Ty Cobb and Hugh Duffy.

Coach Paul Bryant, who made the appointment yesterday, said: "Owens has a fine football background and comes to Kentucky highly recommended."

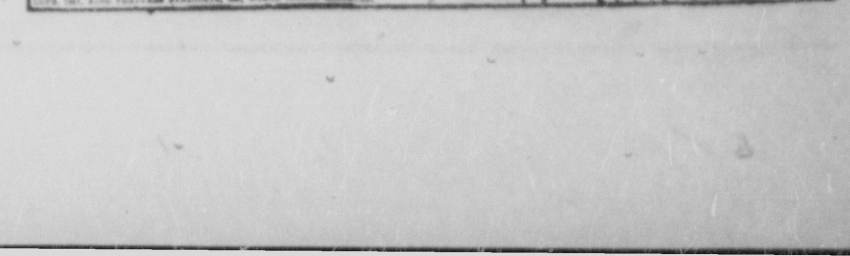

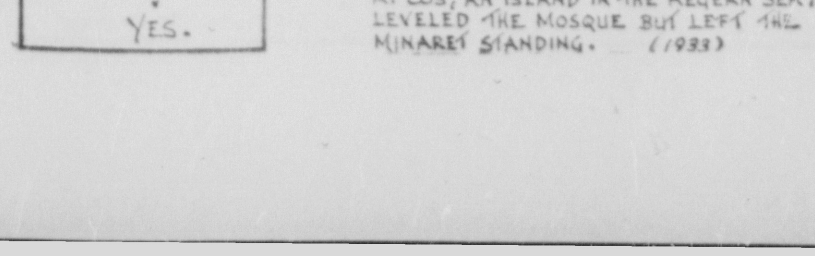

The former Sooner was co-captain of the 1949 Oklahoma team which was undefeated in 11 games and won the Sugar Bowl championship.

The 27-year-old Naval airforce veteran played with the Baltimore Colts last Fall and at the same time was an assistant at Johns Hopkins university.

Hiking Soil Value May Also Increase Farmer Income

Fertility Level Needs Close Watch

Steps Suggested
By Ag Agent Here

Pickaway County farmers who make the most of rising farm income trends are those who give top preference to expenditures which will increase the crop-yielding and income-producing capacity of the farm.

Larry Best, county agent, said Tuesday that:

"Building the soil's fertility level is one of the wisest investments at present. Not only will it enable the soil to produce more crops per acre, but it will cut production costs per bushel or ton."

He said farm economists have pointed out that continuance of the Cold War or the outbreak of full-scale world conflict means that high level production of foods, fibers and fats will be needed for a long period ahead.

Soil improvement undertaken now will help farmers meet the nation's steadily increasing crop demands.

BEST SUGGESTS these steps for reinforcing farm soil fertility resources:

1—Have the soil tested to find out its need for lime and plant nutrients.

2—Follow a rotation that balances soil-robbing and soil-saving crops.

3—Use well-fed deep-rooted legumes to build up organic matter supplies. Return manure and crop residues to the soil. Organic matter will improve the soil's tilth and structure and provide more crop feeding nutrients. It will increase the soil's water-storing capacity.

4—Add necessary commercial fertilizer. Every crop sold from the farm takes with it plant food—nitrogen, phosphate and potash. Some of the nitrogen may be returned by deep-rooted legumes, but phosphate and potash generally can be added only through the use of commercial fertilizer.

5—Cut down losses of topsoil, organic matter and moisture due to erosion by contour cultivation, strip cropping and terracing where necessary.

All these practices have to team together to permanently improve and maintain the soil, the agent says.

Pickaway county farmers also were advised to take immediate action if they want to be sure of having on hand the fertilizer they will need for 1951 Spring planting operations.

Shortages of material are already evident and increased consumer demand from other areas will likely cause fertilizer shortages in Ohio.

Government restriction on the civilian use of sulfur by 20 percent has already cut the production of superphosphate. Supplies of nitrogen fertilizer materials are already tight, with further

Red Paratroops Can Take Alaska Easily, Claim

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—Congress was warned today that Russian paratroops can seize Alaskan air bases in 48 hours and enable the Red air force to hold a knife at America's industrial throat.

E. L. Bartlett, Alaskan delegate to Congress, declared that there are too few combat troops in the U. S. territory, which lies practically a rowboat's ride from Siberia across the Bering Strait.

"There is no reputable military man anywhere," said Bartlett, "who will argue that we can hold our military installations in Alaska with the weak forces we have there at present."

The delegate, who has no vote in Congress, said 100,000 to 150,000 troops would be in the minimum needed for an adequate defense of the territory. Defense Department figures show 10,000 U. S. troops and about 300 planes now on the Alaskan defense line.

With present defense, Bartlett added, "Russia could take over every one of our major air bases within 48 hours with a mass paratroop attack. And if it comes, it will be a big one—they won't be playing tiddlywinks."

Airforce Plans 'Tailoring' For Clothes Handout

DAYTON, Jan. 16—The Army took a lesson from the citizenry today and the result is a "face-lifting" for the air corp's mode of distributing uniforms.

Airmen and women can now purchase uniforms and be fitted "properly" as streamlined clothing sales stores patterned after modern civilian clothing shops.

The organization and operation of a typical clothing sales store was being observed today at Wright-Patterson Airforce base by some 80 high-ranking officers from bases in Europe, England, Japan, Panama and Alaska.

The group is meeting in a five-day clothing conference to review revisions in the operation of clothing sales stores.

There was a time when uniforms were issued out of warehouses and over the counter without the airmen having a choice in any selection.

But that's soon to be part of the past, the Airforce says.

The airmen can utilize individual booths and mirrors. Foot-measuring equipment is there for the asking and tailors measure and alter each garment purchased to assure the best possible fit for airmen.

Cuts likely as defense needs are stepped up.

Meanwhile, the demand for fertilizer generally by farmers throughout the Middle West is far ahead of earlier predictions and has already outstripped the supply of materials in some local areas.

Misunderstanding Tagged As Cause Of Plane Crash

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16—A combination of weather conditions, and misunderstood orders was reported today to have caused the crash-landing of the National Airlines plane at Philadelphia's International Airport Sunday in which seven persons perished.

M. Philip Freed, chief deputy coroner, said the pilot, Capt. Harold Barwick of Jacksonville, Fla., told him he would not have attempted to land if he had known of ground conditions at the time.

Freed quoted Barwick as telling investigators for the Civil Aeronautics Board that he misunderstood landing orders, and that the planes brakes locked before the airliner skidded off the slush-covered runway and into a ditch during a rain and snow storm.

Barwick and his co-pilot, Lt. Edward J. Zatarain, also of Jacksonville, escaped uninjured. Miss Mary Frances Housley, the stewardess, four other women and two infants were burned to death in the fire that followed the crash.

Nineteen other passengers survived. Witnesses said 10 were saved by the heroic hostess who lost her life when she went back to rescue a baby. She was found with the infant in her arms.

New Hearings On Disloyalty Being Demanded

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—Sen. Lodge, (R) Mass., renewed his demand today for an independent bipartisan commission to investigate charges of disloyalty in the State Department.

Lodge was a member of a Senate foreign relations subcommittee which investigated charges brought by Sen. McCarthy, (R) Wis.

His resolution to set up an independent investigating group was pigeonholed during the 81st Congress and he reoffered it today.

Lodge reemphasized that neither the President nor Congress is equipped to conduct a satisfactory inquiry and proposed that the commission be staffed with highly-qualified personnel.

He added:

"Such an investigation will result in cleaning out the unfit and in ending any unjustified suspicion of the many fine men and women who work in the State Department."

$2,709 Spent Here Last Year For Polio Care

Polio-struck down well over 30,000 children and adults in 1950. This was the second worst year in the history of this crippling and costly disease.

Dimes and dollars given to the current Pickaway County March of Dimes will enable the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to give help promptly to every polio patient in need.

Half the money raised remains with the local chapter for local patients or, in emergencies, supplements national epidemic aid wherever needed.

Last year in Pickaway County, 14 people were under treatment for polio. Campaign Director Ed Amey said. The local chapter spent $2,709.11 for patient aid. The national foundation sent $286,229.90 to 33 chapters in Ohio in the first eleven months of 1950, after local funds were depleted. Such advances totalled $7.7 million to 990 chapters in 46 states, toward the $25 million patient bill for 1950, Amey reported.

Citrus Fruit Supply Good

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—The Agriculture Department says that grower prices for oranges and grapefruit this Winter will tend to be sustained at the December levels as processing gets into full swing.

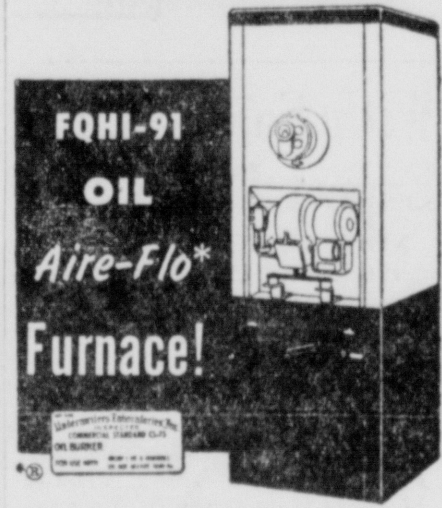

Further support to citrus prices will come from the government export-payment programs announced recently for oranges and grapefruit.

It does not seem likely, the department says, that prices will rise much this Winter in view of the fact that the new orange crop is slightly larger than the last one and the grapefruit crop is a third larger.
